With which I shall never part,
Though God has you in his keeping,
I still have you in my heart.

Some day I know not where
To clasp your hand in a better land
Never to part any more.

Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers!
Everyone has received their report cards. They were proud of their grades.

The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow in Carver-Price High School is Annie Megginson. She received the highest score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes. The examination was administered to the Senior girls on December 4, 1956. Her award was a beautiful pin, designed by Trifari of New York.

The honor roll students for the third six weeks are:

Twelfth grade: William Bruce, William Forbes, Celestine Chambers, Laura Fleming, Hazel Gafford, Mary Goode and Harolyn Walker.

Eleventh grade: Herbert Williams.

Tenth grade: Phillip Haskins, Thomas Haskins, Absalom Lewis, John Minnifield and Alton Reed.

Ninth grade: "B" honor roll: Frances Austin, Serena Ferguson, Rosetta Lipford, Ora Scruggs and Dianne Tibbs.

Eighth grade "B" honor roll: Margaret Haskins, Helen Preston, Faye Hubbard, and Helen Bagby.

100% attendance: Helen Preston, Jenny Mae Burns, Faye Hubbard, Mary West, Alex Turner, Barbara Reed, Russel Turner and Helen Bagby.

The Carver-Price High School Panthers played two games last week and won the game with Carter G. Woodson at Dillwyn 41-35, on the loser's court, but lost in Waynesboro 60 - 53 in a conference game.

In the Woodson game, the lead changed often but the Panthers put on a rally in the final two minutes winning going away. James Gafford was the high scorer with 17 points, followed by Isaac Trent with 10 points.

The Waynesboro game was decided in the fourth quarter when the winners made 19 points to the Panthers' 11 points. The Panthers held a 42-41 lead after the end of the third quarter. Again the Panthers were led by their high - scoring ace James Gafford, with 29 points.

Next Friday, the Panthers will play host to Central High, of Amherst. Carver-Price defeated the Amherst quintet in Amherst by a 37 - 34 score on January 21. Come out and cheer our team to victory.

We close with this thought for the week:
"I ask and wish not to appear
More facetious, rich or gay
Lord, make me wiser every year,
And better every day."

Increasing Demand For Homes Felt Here

Current Season Best for Dark Tobacco

Fire-cured tobacco farmers produced one of their finest crops in 1956. Although average yields and dollar data were not available at press time, indications are that the growers will average at least 1400 pounds per acre, with a value of $40.00. This is a per acre value equaling $560.00. Appomattox farmers grew 1,448.40 acres in 1956.

The marketing season comes to an end today, with the closing of warehouses.

Looking back 25 years, a great many changes have occurred. In 1930 - 34, 3,284 acres were grown with a total yield of 2,321,600 pounds, an average of 722 pounds per acre, valued at $67.00.

Twenty years later, 1950 - 54, 1348 acres were grown, or about two-thirds of the 1930-34 average, yet with an average yield of 1,168,100 pounds. The average yield per acre was 1173 pounds; estimated value is $400.00 per acre.

Why the increased yields?

The answer seems to be: improved varieties, improved fertilizing methods, rotation of tobacco, new insecticides; or, to summarize generally a more efficient job of producing quality tobacco that is salable.

Lee Soil Conservation District Reports on Its Work in Area

The Robert E. Lee Soil Conservation District was organized in July, 1946, and is made up of Appomattox, Amherst, Buckingham, Campbell and Cumberland Counties. The Board of Supervisors is composed of the following members:

H. P. Mays, Amherst
John Cole, Appomattox
R. W. Gannaway, Guinea Mills
Bailey G. Wilkins, Amherst
W. E. Calohan, Rustburg.

Six regular quarterly meetings and one special meeting of the District Supervisors were held during the year.

Since its organization, the District has attempted to reduce soil and water losses on the farm lands of the district by bringing to bear every force available to do this job. The Soil Conservation Service has made personnel available to us since the organization of the District. As the years passed we have also entered into Memoranda of Understanding with the Virginia Forest Service, the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, and the Virginia Department of Highways. These agencies are continually developing ways and means of increasing their support to the District's efforts and as a result a well rounded cooperative effort is gradually evolving.

Soil Conservation Service: The Soil Conservation Service is furnishing trained technicians who prepare farm plans which are drawn up into Farmer - District cooperative agreements. At the present time the District is furnished the following personnel by the Soil Conservation Service: W. D. Richardson, Area Conservationist; Hunter Sheppe, Amherst; T. E. Dickerson, and John Goin, Appomattox; J. P. Thomas, Cumberland; John Harrison and Robert Hankins, Campbell; and C. W. Crist, Jr., Buckingham.

C. N. Judy, Soil Scientist, works in the five counties of the District preparing Soil Conservation surveys for use by the other technicians. In addition to the personnel assigned on regular district operations, Mr. J. B. Terry, who transferred from Cumberland County, is assigned to full time on watershed work.

A summary of acomplishments by farmers with assistance from Soil Conservation Service technicians working in the district is as follows:

There were 74 new cooperators in 1956 who started conservation plans. This brings the total of cooperating farmers to 2,141 with 400,380 acres of land under conservation plan.

The Soil Conservation Service assisted the District in the Elon Fork Falling River Pilot Watershed.

Work has continued on such measures as tree planting, roadbank stabilization, sod waterways, and stabilization of badly eroded areas which produce silt. The first and second floodwater retarding structures were completed. The banks and dams were seeded. Engineering work was started on the third flood water retarding structure and should be ready to contract in 1957.

The Virginia Forest Service has assisted in a vital way in the upbuilding of a sound conservation program in the district.

Urges More Use of Salk Polio Vaccine Here

The Southside Health District Director today advised that groups eligible for Salk anti-polio vaccine through public health clinics should use the clinics promptly, since Virginia's fund for vaccine supplies has been exhausted.

Dr. H. E. Jinkins said that plentiful supplies are presently on hand, but that there are no more funds for re-supply unless Congress makes an additional appropriation.

Under present laws, the vaccine is provided without charge at public clinics for the one-year through 19 years of age groups and pregnant women. The vaccine is also available through family physicians, Dr. Jenkins advised.

Throughout the Southside Health District there have been 18 regular clinics every four weeks for more than a year providing the vaccine. Dr. Jenkins said only the neglect of parents would be responsible should an eligible child not secure the vaccine. He urged their immediate attention to the matter.

In Appomattox, a clinic to administer Salk vaccine is held every second and fourth Tuesday at 10:00 A. M., for the eligible age groups.

Dr. Jenkins said that parents in any county may call their county health office for time as to public health clinics there. Family physicians will continue to receive the vaccine through the Health Department for the under 1 year through 19 age groups, and expectant mothers.

Dance Classes Are Announced

Cheatham, Chairman of the Education Department of the Woman's Club of Appomattox; Mrs. W. E. Ferrell, Mrs. Thelbert M. Trent, Mrs. Martin L. Webb, or Mrs. Joel W. Flood.

A growing demand for housing is being felt in Appomattox. It appears that numbers of families employed in new industries in the Lynchburg area, are seeking living facilities in Appomattox. They are seeking small homes, rather than apartments.

For several weeks, The Times-Virginian has been appealed to by many such persons, asking for help in finding a small home for permanent residence. Every day they call or come by the office, inquiring if any "For Rent" notices have come in for homes. They are looking for modern homes, at least five rooms, with all modern conveniences. Only for temporary location, until they "can find a home," would they consider an apartment. Apparently they feel they have permanent jobs at the new plants in and around Lynchburg, with good pay, and it would be all right to drive from as far from their jobs as Appomattox, provided they can find a suitable permanent home with all conveniences.

Lynchburg itself is having a big boom in housing construction. For January alone, some $400,000 in building permits were granted. But the rush of incoming families seems to be more than can be accomodated in time, so many are fanning out to such communities as Appomattox, seeking homes.

Appomattox went through two periods of crowded housing, when two pipeline projects in this area brought several hundred workers. However, these periods called mostly for temporary housing, and somehow the facilities were provided.

Some fine new homes have gone up here in the past year. However, the number has hardly met the local demand, much less provided available homes for newcomers. A demand definitely exists for homes of the popular semi-ranch type, of five or six rooms, with all modern conveniences, and on a fair-sized lot, either within town or nearby. Most of the newcomers would prefer to be "in town" than even a "short ways out."

There is no real shortage of building lots within the town, but one real shortage might be lack of experience labor to handle a volume of construction promptly.

Appomattox has, it is felt, an opportunity to grow and expand, but housing seems to be the bottle-neck.

Unit Auxilary Dinner Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary dinner meeting was well attended Monday evening by its members and the Woman's Club of Appomattox and American Legion Post 104 were well represented. A delicious Pot Luck dinner was served.

Mrs. C. E. Harvey, the Auxilary president, presided over the meeting and welcomed the visitors. Mrs. Ivey Holland presented Mrs. John Sheffield, of Victoria, the guest speaker.

Mrs. Sheffield, Department Rehabilitation Chairman, President of the Woman's Club of Victoria, and Woman's Club District Welfare Chairman, made an inspiring and challenging talk on Child Welfare. She said, in part, "Child welfare is the backbone of America. Children are born with faith and adults either build or tear down this faith. The adults must demonstrate the Ten Commandments as it is the nature of youth to imitate their elders."

Mrs. Sheffield advocates strongly the establishment of a family council in every home. She believes that children are in dire need of parental care, more now than ever before, and have less.

Miss Anna Dickhoff, of Hampden-Sydney, Department Membership Chairman, was present and spoke briefly to the group relative to strengthening the organization through enlargement of membership.

A brief business meeting was held following the program.

F. H. A. MEETING
